

Amit Grinvald

Shifting how people think, with the energy to make it land and the clarity to make it useful.

Amit Grinvald is an international keynote speaker, communication strategist, and award-winning mentor who helps leaders communicate complex ideas with clarity, confidence, and real-world impact.

Over the past decade, he has worked with executives, founders, and technical experts across industries, trusted by leaders at Microsoft, Deloitte, Red Hat, Capgemini, Deutsche Telekom, and Rolls-Royce.

He is the founder and lead organiser of TEDxUNYP, one of Europe's most recognised TEDx events, with multiple TED Editor's Picks and talks ranked among the global Top 100, reaching millions of viewers worldwide.

A few keynote examples. Each built for a specific room.

Who's Flying the Plane? Leading with Data, AI, and Human Judgment

AI is the autopilot, not the pilot. A keynote on using data and AI to sharpen your judgment, not replace it, so leaders stay data-informed and human-led.

The Missing API Behind Great Tech Leadership

Brilliant ideas stall when they don't land. A keynote on communication as the missing interface between technical expertise and real influence; one you can enhance like any other system.

The Four Dimensions of Grounded Confidence

Confidence isn't something you either have or you don't. This keynote shows it's built, using the Four Dimensions Framework™ to make people steadier and more self-assured when it counts.

Spoken at:

"Amit is an exceptional individual who could stand out from any crowd. It's near impossible not to feel empowered working with him."
